RE: Proposed language for exemption in CG Dkt. No. 02-278

Dear Richard:

As promised, attached is proposed language for an exemption for small direct sellers like Vector/Cutco from the FCC's requirements regarding do-not-call lists, which we would like you to consider as you review the FCC's rules pursuant to the Telephone Consumer Protection Act of 1991 ("TCPA"). We are also including a courtesy copy of the supplemental comments we are filing on behalf of Vector/Cutco in response to the Further Notice of Proposed Rulemaking in the above-captioned docket.

As we discussed during our earlier meeting, the language tracks the stated enforcement intentions of the FTC, as reflected in a letter sent from the FTC to Rep. Amo Houghton, a copy of which is attached for your convenience. We expect these enforcement intentions to be incorporated into the FTC's forthcoming Compliance Guide.

If you would like to discuss this with us further, we would be happy to meet with you at your convenience.

Sincere regards,

Written Ex Parte Presentation: In the Matter of Rules and Regulations Implementing the Telephone Consumer Protection Act of 1991, CG Dkt. No. 02-278

PROPOSED LANGUAGE FOR FCC EXEMPTION

Assuming the FCC will maintain the basic structure of the existing TCPA rules, but add, delete or change provisions depending on specific inputs from the rulemaking process, Vector respectfully requests that the Commission consider the following in formulating an exemption for small direct sellers that is in keeping with the stated enforcement intentions of the FTC:

At current 47 C.F.R. §64.1200(f)(3) (definition of telephone solicitation), insert the language in bold:

(f) As used in this section:

* * *

(3) The term telephone solicitation means the initiation of a telephone call or message for the purpose of encouraging the purchase or rental of, or investment in, property, goods, or services, which is transmitted to any person, but such term does not include a call or message:

- (i) To any person with that person's prior express invitation or permission;
- (ii) To any person with whom the caller has an established business relationship;
- (iii) By or on behalf of a tax-exempt nonprofit organization; or (iv) By an individual direct seller who calls no more than 20 personal referrals per day.

(4) The term established business relationship means a prior existing relationship formed by a voluntary two-way communication between a person or entity and a residential subscriber with or without an exchange of consideration, on the basis of an inquiry, application, purchase or

WASHINGTON, D.C. 20580

The Honorable Amo Houghton
United States House of Representatives
1111 Longworth House Office Building
Washington, D.C. 20515

Dear Representative Houghton:

A member of your staff, Erica Ferri, recently contacted the Commission concerning the possible effects which the amendments to the Telemarketing Sales Rule (TSR) may have on CUTCO and the 675 Steelworkers employed by the company. The Commission has now issued the final amended Rule and an accompanying Statement of Basis and Purpose, pursuant to its Rule Review, the Telemarketing and Consumer Fraud and Abuse Prevention Act, and the Uniting and Strengthening America by Providing Appropriate Tools Required to Intercept and Obstruct Terrorism Act (USA PATRIOT Act). I have enclosed a copy of the news release describing this action for your information.

The amended Rule: (1) retains most of the original Rule's requirements concerning deceptive and abusive telemarketing acts or practices without major substantive changes; (2) establishes a national "do-not-call" registry maintained by the Commission; (3) defines "upselling" to clarify the amended Rule's application to these transactions, requires specific disclosures for upsell transactions, and expressly excludes upselling transactions from certain exemptions in the amended Rule; (4) requires that sellers and telemarketers accepting payment by methods other than credit and debit cards subject to certain protections obtain express verifiable authorization from their customers; (5) retains the exemptions for pay-per-call, franchise, and face-to-face transactions, but makes these transactions subject to the national "do-not-call" registry and certain other provisions in the abusive practices section of the Rule; (6) specifies requirements for the use of predictive dialers; (7) requires disclosures and prohibits misrepresentations in connection with the sale of credit card loss protection plans; (8) requires an additional disclosure in connection with prize promotions; (9) requires disclosures and prohibits misrepresentations in connection with offers that include a negative option feature; (10) eliminates the general media and direct mail exemptions for the telemarketing of credit card loss protection plans and business opportunities other than business arrangements covered by the Franchise Rule<sup>1</sup>; (11) requires telemarketers to transmit caller identification information; (12) eliminates the use of post-transaction written confirmation as a means of obtaining a customer's express verifiable authorization when the goods or services are offered on a "free-to-pay conversion" basis; (13) prohibits the disclosure or receipt of the customer's or donor's unencrypted billing information for consideration, except in limited circumstances; and (14) requires that the seller or telemarketer obtain the customer's express informed consent to all transactions, with specific requirements for transactions involving "free-to-pay conversions" and preacquired account information.

The amended Rule will become effective sixty days after the Statement of Basis and Purpose and the amended Rule are published in the Federal Register, and full compliance with the caller identification transmission provision will be required within 365 days after the date of publication. The Commission will announce at a future time the date by which full compliance with Section 310.4(b)(1)(iii)(B), the "do-not-call" registry provision, will be required. The Commission anticipates that full compliance with the "do-not-call" registry provision will be required approximately seven months from the date a contract is awarded to create the national registry.

With respect to implementation of the "do-not-call" registry, I should also note that the Commission is working with the states to develop a single, national registry. The Commission envisions allowing consumers throughout the United States to register their preference not to receive telemarketing calls in a single transaction with one governmental agency. In addition, the Commission anticipates allowing telemarketers and sellers to access that consumer registration information through one visit to a national website, developed for that purpose. To further those goals, the Commission will allow all states, and the Direct Marketing Association (DMA), if it so desires, to download into the national registry—at no cost to the states or the DMA—the telephone numbers of consumers who have registered with them their preference not to receive telemarketing calls. Telemarketers and sellers will be allowed to access that data through the national registry as the information is received. It will take some time to achieve these goals completely, however, and the Commission will continue to work diligently with the states in an effort to harmonize these different systems.

Finally, regarding your specific question, we expect the Commission will clarify in its Compliance Guide for businesses that small direct sellers, such as individuals selling CUTCO products, are unlikely to be impacted by this provision of the Rule. The staff currently preparing compliance guides anticipates, in particular, that these guides will advise that individuals calling small numbers of personal referrals out of their own homes will not be targeted for law enforcement action by the FTC staff. Of course, if a small direct seller wanted to avoid contacting a person whose number is on the registry, we anticipate that a single number lookup feature will be included in the registry to facilitate such efforts at no cost to the seller.

Supplemental Comments of Vector Marketing Corporation in Response to the Commission's Further Notice of Proposed Rulemaking

Vector Marketing Corporation ("Vector"), by its attorneys, hereby submits its Supplemental Comments in the above-captioned proceeding, specifically to respond to the Commission's request for comment on how the FCC can "maximize consistency with the FTC's rule."<sup>1</sup>

Vector is the U.S. marketing arm of Cutco Cutlery Corporation ("CUTCO"), a manufacturer of fine cutlery products employing approximately 675 Steelworkers in Olean, New York. Vector markets CUTCO cutlery through a sales force of college-age students who sell CUTCO knives as local, independent sales contractors. As more fully described in Vector's initial Comments and Reply Comments in this proceeding, the students who make up Vector's sales force are "direct sellers" – i.e., they do not sell CUTCO knives over the phone, but make face-to-face sales presentations in potential customers' homes. Thus, like other direct sellers, such as those who sell Shaklee or Avon products, these students' "business" use of their telephones is limited to a few phone calls per day to friends, family members, and to other people to whom they have been personally referred.

Such direct sellers are simply not part of the problem created by the emergence and phenomenal growth of the telemarketing industry that the Commission and the Federal Trade Commission are seeking to address through their respective rulemaking proceedings.

Accordingly, in its initial Comments in this proceeding, Vector urged the Commission to create a safe harbor or de minimus-use exemption from any requirements pertaining to do-not-call lists for small direct sellers like Vector, whose representatives make no more than 20 calls per day to friends, family members, and others to whom they have been personally referred, for the purpose of setting up face-to-face appointments.<sup>2</sup>

Subsequent to Vector's initial filing, the Federal Trade Commission ("FTC") released its amended Telemarketing Sales Rule ("TSR"),<sup>3</sup> which modified a broad "face-to-face exemption" that had been present in the original TSR, and which had (prior to the amendment) completely exempted companies like Vector from the TSR.<sup>4</sup> The FTC explained its action in a letter from FTC Secretary Donald S. Clark to Congressman Amo Houghton (R-NY).<sup>5</sup> In its letter, the FTC stated that its forthcoming Compliance Guide for businesses would clarify that small direct sellers such as Cutco/Vector likely would not be impacted by the “do-not-call” provisions of the amended rule, and further stated that the Guide would “advise that individuals calling small numbers of personal referrals out of their own homes will not be targeted for law enforcement action by the FTC staff.”<sup>6</sup>

The FCC invited comments on the FTC’s amended TSR, as it relates to the instant proceeding, and extended the filing date for Reply Comments to permit sufficient time for interested members of the public to prepare such comments.<sup>7</sup> In response, Vector filed Reply Comments advising the Commission of the stated enforcement intentions of the FTC and reiterating its request for a specific exemption in the FCC’s amended rules.<sup>8</sup> Vector’s representatives also met personally with Commission staff to discuss such an exemption in the context of developments at the FTC.<sup>9</sup>

A short time after the meeting with FCC staff, the Do-Not-Call Act was signed into law.<sup>10</sup> The Do-Not-Call Act requires the FCC, among other things, to “consult and coordinate with the [FTC] to maximize consistency with the rule promulgated by the FTC in 2002.”<sup>11</sup>

In response to the mandate of the Do-Not-Call Act, Vector has recommended to the Commission Staff specific language for an exemption from the FCC’s amended rule. The language tracks closely the stated enforcement intentions of the FTC with respect to the do-not-call provisions of the amended TSR.<sup>12</sup> Specifically, the suggested language would exempt from the FCC’s do-not-call requirements an “individual direct seller who calls no more than 20 personal referrals per day.”<sup>13</sup> The language also provides definitions for the terms “direct seller” and “personal referrals.”

Vector believes that the FCC, by creating a specific exemption from the “do not call” provisions of its rule for small direct sellers like Vector/Cutco, will indeed promulgate a rule that is fully consistent with the exemptions found in the FTC’s rule,<sup>14</sup> as interpreted by the FTC’s letter to Rep. Houghton. Such an exemption would also help to narrowly tailor the FCC’s amended rule by addressing only those callers and calls that violate the privacy interests that the government is seeking to protect, and excluding those entities and calls that are not part of the problem, thereby strengthening the amended rule against possible Constitutional challenges.

Conversely, an FCC rule that does not exempt small direct sellers like Vector/Cutco from its sweep would be inconsistent on its face with the stated enforcement intentions of the FTC, and, consequently, also would be inconsistent with the statutory mandate of the Do-Not-Call Act.

Accordingly, Vector urges the Commission to exempt from the do-not-call provisions of its rule small direct sellers who make no more than 20 calls per day to their friends, family or others to which they have been personally referred.
